ATTEMPTS TO SHOOT HIS WIFE AND MOTHER-IN-LAW IN CROWD

ASSAULT AND INTENT TO KILL CHARGE MADE AGAINST NEGRO

BULLETS HIT BOTH OF INTEND-ED VICTIMS BUT COLORED GIRL IN CARNIVAL CROWD IS INJURED

Charged with assault with intent to kill as the result of an attempt to shoot his wife and his mother-in-law
in the carnival crowds Saturday evening, John Green, colored, will be given a preliminary hearing before Justice M. H. Zuber Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The preliminary hearing was called this morning and continued until Wednesday at the request of Miss L. Washington Booth, attorney representing Green.

The charge against Green is the result of an alleged attempt to kill his wife, Batha Green, and mother-in-law, Nora Hendry, Saturday evening. The prisoner is said to have fired a shot at his wife in the crowd in front of the postoffice about 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening, the bullet missing the intended victim and striking a colored girl, Dora
Adams, in the face.

In the statement following the shooting people began running in all directions, but the injured girl was carried to the nearby office
of a physician who probed the wound.
It was found the bullet had embedded itself in the flesh and against the cheek bone near the ear just under the left eye. The wound is not considered dangerous and the injured girl will be able to appear at the preliminary hearing
Wednesday morning.

Falling in his attempt to kill his wife, Green is alleged to have run south on Beach street to the corner of Orange avenue, where he knew his mother-in-law, Nora Hendry, was waiting for his wife, and to have fired a shot at the Hendry woman.
This shot also went wild and so far as known did not hit any person.
Green is said to have then struck
Nora Hendry on the head.

Green then started to run west on Orange avenue toward Midway, and run directly into the hands of Marshal Melton, who had heard the shooting and was watching for Green. It was the work of but a few minutes to relieve the negro of his gun and hurry him out to the city jail, where he was locked up.

The shooting is said to have been the result of jealousy on the part of Green. The couple has not been living together for some time and early Saturday evening Green appeared at the home of his wife's parents, desiring to know the whereabouts of his wife. Hendry was at home at the time sitting on the porch. He informed Green that his wife and her mother had gone down to the carnival and Green immediately came down to search for them in the crowds. He is said to have located the mother-in-law standing near the corner of Orange avenue and South Beach street, then he went north on Beach street until he located his wife in the crowd near the postoffice.

Pulling a revolver from his pocket,
he fired at close range at his wife,
the bullet missing its mark. It is said efforts were made by Green to fire again, but the revolver failed to work. The revolver used was one of the cheapest kind made and it is probable that the gun would have been emptied into the crowd and several persons killed or badly hurt
if it had been in working order.

At the time the first shot was fired Marshal Melton was standing in the crowd around the merry-go-round near Orange avenue. The marshal,

Immediately after learning of the shooting, spotted a negro running around the corner from Beach street
onto Orange avenue and gave chase, believing he was the man who fired
the shot. The marshal had proceeded about half way to Palmtoe avenue
when he heard the shot fired at the mother-in-law near the corner of Orange avenue and Beach street, and turned just in time to see Green coming up Orange avenue toward him on the run. The officer stopped out in front of the fleeing black man, covered him with a gun and ordered him to throw up his hands.

The black man's hands went up and the marshal relieved him of the gun and then marched him out to the lockup.

ST. LUCIE IS UNIQUE BOAT BUILT FOR INLAND SERVICE

NEW VESSEL TO BE USED BY FLORIDA COASTAL INLAND
NAVIGATION COMPANY ALONG
THE EAST COAST.

Undoubtedly the most unique boat
in existence, and, in fact, the only one of the kind in service today, is the St. Lucie, owned by the Florida
Coastal Inland Navigation company, and now in operation between Jacksonville and St. Augustine.

The St. Lucie is unique in that the boat is propelled by gas engines, the gas for which is produced from coal carried on board the vessel. She is equipped with a Wolverine engine of 75 horsepower, which drives a stern wheel and gives the boat a speed of about nine miles per hour. The boat was designed especially for service on the inland waters of the East Coast and has a length of 115 feet, a breadth of 26 feet and a draught of but two feet. This enables the boat to glide through the shallowest portions in safety. In addition to the power furnished for propulsion, an electric generator is also driven by the gas engine, furnishing electric lights for the boat.

Designed to carry freight and passengers between Jacksonville and Palm Beach, the St. Lucie will fill a long felt want, and will accommodate many settlers along the rivers and canals, who at the present time
are not in easy touch with transportation.

The company is now operating passenger boats between Jacksonville and Daytona, and is making a great success, as the boat appeals to those who delight in making a trip noted for its pleasures and scenic beauties.

Other boats of the same type as the St. Lucie are to be constructed and placed in service by the company at an early date.

PROPOSED STREET CAR ORDINANCE

WILL COME UP FOR PASSAGE
AT MEETING NEXT THURSDAY

PROVISIONS OF FRANCHISE
SHOULD BE CAREFULLY STUD-IED BY COUNCIL BEFORE IT IS GRANTED.

The proposed ordinance to grant to Michael Scholtz a franchise to operate and maintain an electric railroad system in Daytona has been revised by the ordinance committee and is now worded as it is proposed to be presented at a special meeting of the city council next Thursday for final passage.

The proposed ordinance provides for a right of way on, over and along the following streets and parts of streets in the city of Daytona: Commencing at the intersection of Volusia avenue and Second street;
thence running eastwardly on, over and along said Volusia avenue to the intersection of Volusia avenue and Beach street; also commencing at the intersection of South street and Beach street; thence running northwardly on, over and along said Beach street to the intersection of Fairview avenue and Beach street; also com-

Section two of the proposed ordi-

be constructed on, over and across what is known as the package on the east side of Beach street at the foot of any street which the company may select, and that the company shall have the right to build, construct and operate a bridge at the foot of any street selected, said bridge to extend eastward over the Halifax river and to connect with the town of Daytona Beach, and that the bridge shall not exceed 40 feet in width and shall be used for the purpose of laying the tracks of the railway and such other purposes as may be desired by the company; and that the company shall be granted the right to build its tracks across what is known as the package on the east side of Beach street to any point in front of prop-

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY
LINCOLN'S FUNERAL TRAIN.
By A. W. MACY.
Magnificent was the funeral of Napoleon when they brought him back from St. Helena, 20 years after his death; but sadder and more touching was that of Lincoln when they brought him back from Washington to the little prairie city that had been his home. Twelve days were consumed in the journey. With a little variation, the route traversed was the reverse of that taken by the presidential party on its way to the inauguration, four years before—Washington to Baltimore, to Harrisburg, to Philadelphia, to New York, to Albany, to Buffalo, to Cleveland, to Columbus, to Indianapolis, to Chicago, to Springfield. There were nine cars in the funeral train when it left Washington, though only two, the funeral car and the one occupied by the family, made the entire journey. Others were dropped or added as the train passed over different lines. The funeral cortege presented an imposing spectacle as it moved from city to city, pausing at the larger ones to give the people an opportunity to see their beloved dead. Never in the history of the country has there been such universal sorrow. As one writer expressed it just after the final scenes, "The very sublimity of sorrow has attended his funeral rites, for the high and the low, the rich and the poor, the learned and the ignorant, native and foreign born, white and black, old and young, have wept at his tomb."

(Copyright, 1911, by Joseph B. Burrows.)

Proving an Old Saying.
"I sure believes dat dere's truth in dat old proverb what sars, 'Heaven helps dose what help demselves,' announced Wandering Walter the Weary Wop.
"Wot milks yer tink dat kinder dope?" inquired Rasweed Reggie the Roving Reprobate.
"Becons if we basterter went an' helped ourselves to dat cold ham in dat summer kitchen, we'd never have seen dem winter clothes hangin' there!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Undoubtedly Genuine.
The mistress observed one morning that her dusky butler was wearing a ring with a setting almost large enough for a beacon light. If it had possessed the proper brilliancy. Later in the day she chanced to hear a conversation between the butler and the maid.
"Am dat a genuine dimont yo' is sportin', Jake?" the maid asked, suspicion and hope about equally balanced in her tone.
"Am dis a dimont?" reproachfully.
"Does yo' 'spose I'd buy anything else fo' a 'gement ring? Huh! dis am a dimont an' it am gold what it sets in."
"Ef yo' mean yo' bought it fo' me, yo' will have to tell the price 'fo' I'll believe hit's a dimont. I wuz fooled once wid a brass ring, an' I don't mean to be caught again."
"Cose hit's a dimont, Lucy. Hit cost $2.50."
"Well, gimme here. Long as hit am a genuine dimont I'll 'cept it fo' a 'gement ring."—Housekeeper.

Clipping the Mind's Wings.
Quite early in life Mrs. Pope had realized that it is necessary to be very careful with one's thoughts. They lead to trouble. She had clipped the wings of her own mind, therefore, so successfully that all her conclusions had become evasions, all her decisions compromises. Her profoundest working conviction was a belief that nothing in the world was of value but "fact," and that the art of living was to "tide things over."—From "Marriage," by H. G. Wells in the American magazine.

MRS. WASSON IS OUT WITH OWN STATEMENT
"A friend of mine in the North," said Mrs. George H. Wasson, 1121 Hubbard street, Jacksonville, "sent me odor-o-no, which I have used with astonishing results. I have thrown away my dress shields and never expect to wear them again. Odor-o-no is wonderful and I heartily recommend it."

SELF-PRONOUNCING

The Peeved Bill Clerk

"We've got a new boarder at the house," said the bill clerk, as he dexterously trundled his stool into position and perched himself. "His name is Timothy Haysed, and he's from Squash Center. He'd have stayed there, but the cows were always mistaking him for something to eat and he got bitten up quite badly."

"How interesting," remarked the cashier. "A very odd name, isn't it?" "Well, I won't say that's his sure-enough name," the bill clerk kindly explained. "But it ought to be. He's the worst jay you ever saw. He's got freckles all over his nose and—here's the joke:

"At breakfast he asked the landlady for another plate of cakes. Honest! And when she asked him if he wouldn't like anything more—sarcasm, you know—he says, 'I believe I'll have another piece of steak, please.' Just that way. And he'd jabbed two pieces when the dish went around. He's looking for a job. I think we ought to make room for him here."

"Did the old lady throw the coffee pot at his head?" asked the cashier. "She ought to have," replied the bill clerk, with a grin. "It's a wonder she didn't."

"She didn't then?" "Of course, she didn't," said the bill clerk.

"You don't mean to say that he got his plate of cakes and his steak?" demanded the cashier. "Surely not!"

"Of course, he did," answered the bill clerk. "Did you suppose she'd tell him he'd had all she could afford to give him? What kind of a joint do you think it is?"

"Well, well," said the cashier. "No doubt it would be rather remarkable if the good woman objected to supplying more food than this rustic person paid for."

"Oh, I guess he didn't get any more than he paid for, if you come to that," said the bill clerk.

"The strange thing was that the young man should ask for what he wanted then?" queried the cashier. "Is that it, Johnny?"

"If you knew the old lady, you'd think it was," said the bill clerk. "And he got the cakes—and the steak," said the cashier. "He certainly must be a blockhead. If he'd kept still he'd have had the pleasure of leaving the table hungry, in all probability."

"It's to be hoped he will learn; if he doesn't, it's hard to predict what will become of him."

"To begin with, he'll go around asking for a job, I suppose, and he'll keep on asking until he gets it, instead of politely waiting for the job to come to him. It's quite evident that he hasn't any delicacy whatever. Think of a young man—with freckles on his nose, too—asking busy people to give him work, just because he happens to want it. Shameful!"

"Well, if you think it's all right to put your feet in the trough, you can," muttered the bill clerk.

"I'm not sure that it isn't all right if you happen to be a hog and your associates are hoggish," said the cashier.

"I'm not casting any reflections on your boarding house," he continued. "I merely want to call your attention to the fact that this is a cold, cruel world. It isn't enough to look hungry; you've got to holler for grub and that in no uncertain tone. If you do that it's a hundred to one that you'll get it."

"Your friend, Mr. Timothy Haysed, is making a pretty good beginning, if you ask me. When he gets his job he'll ask about anything he wants to know and then he'll ask for a raise of salary."

"That's all the good it would do him if he worked here," remarked the bill clerk.

"You can't ever until you try," said the cashier. "After he's got most of the knowledge regarding the business," he continued, "he'll ask for a partnership, and he'll naturally get that."

"In course of time he'll ask the other members of the firm to retire, and they will gracefully skidoo. If they don't, he'll scoop in a majority of the stock and kick 'em out."

"Having accomplished this, he'll ask the principal firms in the same line of business to consolidate with him and allow him to direct their destinies, and they will do so."

"Then he will consider that his industry is entitled to a little special legislation of the fostering order, and he will ask for it. If he can put up the right kind of an argument to the commission, he'll get what he asks for."

"Put up is good," commented the bill clerk. "So all you've got to do to be the head of a trust is to ask for another plate of buckwheat cakes when you are a young man. Is that it?"

"You're putting it the wrong way, Johnny," answered the cashier. "Not every young man who asks for a second helping will arrive at the eminence that I speak of, but if you take notice you will find that there is no trust magnate who is congenitally bashful about asking for anything that he thinks he wants."

"I was under the impression that they took what they wanted without asking," said the bill clerk.

A Cook in Need.
Husband—"Did the cook you hired show up?" Wife—"No. Wasn't it fortunate? Another one rang our bell by mistake, looking for Mrs. Gillet, next door, and I've kept her instead."—Harper's Bazar.

Didn't Trouble Her Long.
Miss Malaprop, in returning from her first automobile ride, said that the constant oscillation troubled her a little at first, but that she soon got used to it.

Curious.
A curious thing about automobiles is that whenever one of them turns turtle a chorus girl or two are likely to be found under it.

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

POOR KID.

Kind Old Lady—Gracious! Why do you allow that little boy to swear so?
Policeman—He's got a right to swear. He just missed his Sunday school picnic by ten minutes.

FACING A FAMINE.

An untimely biting frost effectually completed the mischief done earlier by the insect enemies of Mr. Harden's potatoes. The tops of the plants, which had served as pasture for the pests, were entirely destroyed, and with them Mr. Harden's hopes of a crop.

He was not selfish, however, and could think of others in the hour of adversity. Going to town in the afternoon, he was accosted at the post-office by James Hayes, an intimate acquaintance.

"Hello, Giles! How's everything up to the corners?"

"Trouble enough, Jib, trouble enough!" was the gloomy response. "Ten million 'ater bugs and nothing for 'em to eat!"—Youth's Companion.

Propriety.
Not long after the expulsion from Eden, Eve saw Adam digging in the ground with something.

"What is that implement?" she inquired.

"That? Why, that's a spade!" replied Adam, thinking no wrong.

Whereupon Eve blushed violently. "O, mercy!" she cried, and averted her face. In other words, it was long enough after the expulsion for the sense of propriety not only to have come into being, but to have gained considerable headway as well.—Puck.

Terrifying.
The little boy regarded the pictures of the harem skirt with starting eyeballs.

"Does it mean that I am to have twice as many trousers cut down for me?" he shrieked.

Then he fell on his knees and prayed, as never before, that several sisters might be vouchsafed him in the future.—Puck.

A COLD DINNER

Mrs. Benham—I see that they have found the north pole.
Benham—That's no reason why you should do your cooking there.

To His Personal Knowledge.
Desk Sergeant—What did you put that fortune teller out of business for?

Police Inspector—She's a humbug. I tried to find out from her what had become of the diamond pin I lost the other day, and she gave me the wrong steer.

Ages of Wisdom.
"I believe it's a fact that a man must get to be at least 30 before he really knows anything."

"Yes, and he must be at least 40 before he learns to quit telling what he knows."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Antique Decoration.
"Did you ever see such a lot of old girls as Mrs. Bangs had at her birthday party?"

"Never. To be in keeping, she ought to have decorated the room with wallflowers and century plants."

Curious.
A curious thing about automobiles is that whenever one of them turns turtle a chorus girl or two are likely to be found under it.

Sure Enough.
The teacher had been telling the class about the rhinoceros family. "Now, name some things," said she, "that are very dangerous to get near to, and that have horns." "Automobiles!" replied little Jennie Jones, promptly.—Unidentified.

*Not expecting to be in Daytona next winter I will sell my auxiliary cruising yacht, "Duchess" at a big sacrifice, the handsomest and best boat of its size on the East Coast. Can be seen at the H. R. Y. C. 85-44.

Ingenious Little Invention.
Some college girls invented an ingenious apparatus for boiling a kettle, when they wanted tea instead of a chafing dish concoction. It is made of heavy wire, bent at the ends to rest on the chafing dish frame. A hardware dealer will make it for a few cents. The kettle is set down on the framework, which comes with in two inches of the frame.

*I will sell at a bargain my 12 1/2 acre lot on Loomis avenue, lot 2, block 31, Daytona. Valuable for a fine bearing orange grove; valuable for being fine quality gardening or trucking land; valuable for being all underlaid with best quality of white marl suitable for road making; valuable for subdivision into building lots. Worth more for the purpose than price asked. For information inquire 174 S. Beach street, 85-87-90.

Metal Adaptable for Airships.
The new metal known as Liege metal is said to be 40 per cent lighter than aluminum, which makes it particularly useful for airships.

THE PROPOSED STREET

CAR ORDINANCE

proposed ordinance is misleading in that an intimation is given that the promoters of the proposed railway will eventually build the line to DeLand, and that a bridge will be constructed across the Halifax river for the purpose of having the tracks of the railway line connect Daytona with the peninsula, but no such definite statements are made in the proposed ordinance. If this intimation is prompted by good faith on the part of the promoters of the proposed street railway line and it is really the intention of the company to build the line to DeLand and construct a bridge across the Halifax, let these be made positive statements in the franchise and made conditions of the proposed franchise, that the line to DeLand will be built within a certain time and that the bridge shall be constructed and in use within a certain time.

There is no doubt but that a trolley line between Daytona and DeLand would be a big thing for both cities and the country between and around it is known that several capitalists have been for some time and are now considering the construction of such a line. The people in this vicinity and the people in the vicinity of DeLand want such a connection between the two cities, but they don't want it by intimation. If this company really intends to build such a line, let this be made a condition of the granting of the franchise.

A bridge connecting Daytona with the town on the peninsula, if used exclusively to carry the tracks of the trolley line, or if used for general traffic also, would undoubtedly be a great thing for this vicinity in years to come, both for the residents of the city of Daytona and the residents of the two peninsula towns, and if the company really intends to build such a bridge and make a connecting trolley line an established fact, let this be made a condition of the franchise, instead of an intimation and statement that the company may do so, if it sees fit.

The Daily News believes the city of Daytona has a bright future and the city will build up and improve rapidly within the next few years. Beach street and the river front parkage is one of the really attractive things about the city of Daytona. Some time in the not very distant future the river front will be still further beautified by the building of a seawall some distance out from the present water line, the river will be dredged out to permit large boats to come up to the wall and the intervening space will be filled in and the parkage enlarged to that extent.

If the proposed street railway line is to be granted the use of the parkage for the laying of tracks there should be a distinct understanding that when the time comes for the extending of the parkage the tracks of the street railway line shall be moved farther out and that the company shall stand its share of the expense of building the seawall and the consequent filling. There are many citizens of the opinion that the street car tracks should not be permitted on Beach street at all, that Beach street should be preserved in its present state and that the trolley line will be just as profitable and just as convenient if laid on Palmetto avenue.

The proposed ordinance provides that the acceptance of the franchise shall be filed within 30 days after its ratification by the electors but further provides that a bond in the sum of $5,000 for the performance of the conditions of the franchise shall be filed within six months thereafter. It seems that the bond should be filed with the acceptance and not tie up the franchise without any forfeit for six months and thus preclude other capitalists from being in a position to consider the investment.

Another section of the proposed franchise which should be carefully considered by the members of the city council is section 11, which reads as follows: "That the grantees herein hereby agree to furnish a minimum passenger service over its tracks extending from the point on Volusia avenue where it intersects with the Florida East Coast railway, eastwardly to Beach street, and over its entire track on Beach street and over its track eastwardly across the Halifax river, of at least four trips each way for at least ten months of each and every year, after the tracks are laid and the railway service is completed and in operation; saving and excepting, however, any stoppage or delays in service caused by acts of God, strikes or matters over which grantees have no control."

Just what good a street railway service operated over a short distance of track four times during each of ten months, or once each week during these ten months, would be to the people of this city the members of the city council should make sure before granting such a franchise. Also it should be definitely known why the service should not be operated every day over the entire trackage of the company during every month of the year, instead of dispensing with any service during two months of the year.

The Daily News is heartily in favor of a trolley line system in the city of Daytona, and trolley connections between Daytona, Daytona Beach, Seabreeze and DeLand and would like to see such a system with extensions to Ormond, Port Orange and New Smyrna, but it believes the city council should carefully consider the future of the city before granting such a franchise and that he people should not rush blindly into the election booth to vote on the proposition without fully understanding just what rights they are giving away and what they are going to get in return.

A number of property owners on South Beach street, through their attorney, Miss L. Washington Booth, have presented to the city council a petition asking that they be notified in writing of the time when the council proposes to take final action on the proposed ordinance, with a view of suggesting an amendment. It is said that the property owners on South Beach street object to the line running in front of their homes.

JUST GOSSIP BY THE GOSSIPER.

At least it is a relief to see Beach street cleared of dirty ten's and annoying noises.

Advancement will be the watchword in Daytona and vicinity during the coming year, and the city will present a more metropolitan appearance to the tourists when they return at the beginning of the winter season.

The Mosquito Inlet reservation is proving a great thing for this section in the preservation of water fowl. Many varieties of birds that were almost extinct here are again seen along the Halifax far north of the reservation boundary and the river in this respect begins to look to the old settlers more as it did in the early days of Daytona, when it was teeming with bird life.

It is now generally conceded that the city council made a mistake in granting the Johnny Jones Carnival company the privilege of Beach street and the city parkage for the recent two weeks' stand of the carnival. Not disputing the fact that the carnival may have been an attraction and it may have furnished amusement and excitement for the people, it would have been just as well parcelized and would have furnished just as much amusement and excitement for those who desired it, if it had been located on a back street or some vacant lot, and in that way it would not have been forced on all citizens and visitors, as it was on Beach street. The location of the carnival on the city parkage cheapened the general appearance of the city and made it look unattractive to the visitors who were taking their first look at Daytona. The council acted in good faith in granting the license and privilege of the parkage, but it is believed the members of the city council now hold the same opinion as a majority of the citizens, that carnival companies should be kept off Beach street in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi C. Albertson of Atlantic City, arrived in the city Sunday, and are guests for a time at the Palmist hotel. Mr. Albertson is vice president of the Second National bank of Atlantic City. Mr. and Mrs. Albertson, who have been making a tour of the state, have quite a number of friends in Daytona.

Miss Lucy Blakeslee, who has been spending the winter in Virginia, returned to this city last week, her residence in Seabreeze being rented for the season. Miss Blakeslee, since her return from Virginia, has visited a number of places in this state and is better satisfied than ever that there is nothing equal to Daytona. She says also that she did not find it necessary to sing Daytona's praises as there seemed to be many people on the train who were acquainted with the city and were freely imparting their knowledge of its beauty and attractions to those around them.

TEN YEARS AGO.

From the Gazette-News, of Feb. 15, 1902.

That issue of the Gazette-News contained an article on the investments that Adam Schantz, Sr., now deceased, had made in Daytona, the investments at that time amounting to $120,000. Mr. Schantz announced that he was ready to invest much more if the citizens would co-operate with him. One of the improvements that he advocated was the building of an electric railway between Daytona and Deland. He also suggested the building of a large sanitarium.

The executive committee of Pine-wood cemetery were at that time trying to sell stock and use the proceeds for building fences, sidewalks and other improvements.

THE GREAT EXPOUNDER OF THE CONSTITUTION.

By A. W. MACY.

Few people fully realize the wonderful service rendered to the people of the United States by Chief Justice John Marshall. He presided over the Supreme Court from 1801 till his death, in 1835. During that time 1,215 cases came before the court for decision, and in 519 of them Marshall himself delivered the opinion. Of the 1,215 cases, 62 involved questions of constitutional law, and he delivered the opinion in 35 of the 62. Not only so, but in 23 of the 36 cases there was no dissenting opinion by any of the associate Justices. For these reasons Marshall is looked upon as the great expounder of the Constitution. His record as a judge and the soundness of his opinions seem all the more wonderful when we consider the conditions of the times. The Constitution, the laws, the nation itself, were all in their infancy. The republic was an experiment, and many doubted its survival. Without precedents, one might almost say without guide or compass, Marshall delivered opinions and interpretations that have become foundation-stones of our national existence.

How Virginia Town Got Its Name.

Front Royal is the name of a town in Warren county, Va. At first it bore the title "Royal Oak" because of an immense tree upon its commons. One day the colonel of militia became confused while drilling his troops and gave his regiment the queer command, "Front the Royal!" Such is the origin of the modern name given in a bulletin of the geological survey.
